PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

Goals and objectives of the new program

- f* Identify the specific student audience(s) for this program and include the following:

 - Evidence of student demand
 - Anticipated annual enrolments for the program

Avoiding unnecessary duplication in the system into practice, and that practice requires a license for which the students qualify directly from the program (or from an examination directly after the program), the institution should indicate whether they are in contact with the appropriate accrediting body, and whether or not they are seeking accreditation.

PROGRAM CONSULTATION AND EVALUATION

Other provincial postsecondary institutions consulted about the program

- f* List the other provincial postsecondary institutions consulted about the program, and provide details of the discussions such as key areas of discussion, dates, and individuals involved.
- f* ALMD(Advanced Education and Labor Market Development) should be consulted on Health-related programs: The provincial government is the key player in the health field, and as such, it is important that ALMD be consulted with regard to the development/implementation of non-degree programs in this field. ALMD works with postsecondary institutions to respond to British Columbia's Health Human Resources (HHR) Plan with health program expansion, and therefore needs to endorse any related proposals prior to implementation.

Other consultation

- f* Provide a list and summary of the nature of all other consultations including professional associations, municipal councils, employers, postsecondary institutions in other jurisdictions, trade groups, etc. Include any written comments in an appendix.
- f* If applicable, describe the composition of the industry advisory committee created for the program. Describe how the committee will help ensure the program remains up-to-date and meets employer and student needs in future years.

Student Loan Program Eligibility

- f* State whether the program meets the eligibility requirements for the StudentAid BC program. See Chapter 2: Program Eligibility, StudentAid BC Policy Manual, 2020/21 (Ministry of Advanced Education)
